

Professor Alison Phipps, UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and the Arts, University of Glasgow

The UNESCO Chair in Refugee Integration through Languages and the Arts within the School of Education at the University of Glasgow has attracted a total of £1.56 million in funding and grants since its inception in 2016. Funding has gone towards projects such as the Online Palestinian Arabic Course (OPAC), a cross-border collaboration to tackle unemployment and promote intercultural and multilingual exchanges through the design, development and promotion of a Palestinian Arabic language course grounded in Palestinian culture and heritage.²⁸

²⁸ The figure includes externally awarded research, contracts, internal knowledge exchange, project development grants, studentships and internships. From email correspondence with Lauren Roberts, UNESCO Coordinator, Secretariat UNESCO Chair, University of Glasgow. (2019). Refugee Integration through the Languages and the Arts; Retrieved from: <https://www.gla.ac.uk/research/az/unesco/researchandengagement/researchprojects/opac/#d.en.584338>.

✉ Professor Alison Phipps

© Bella Hoozeveen

